

Croyland Primary School

Shout Out!

Issue: Spring (2) 2019

One of our school strengths is the time teachers spend in organising visits and visitors in to school to bring the curriculum to life. There is a quote which all teachers are reminded of at the beginning of every year. “I hear and I forget, I see and I remember , I do and I understand.”. The impact of “doing” is evident in any talk and writing that follows an activity. I know that some of the visits can be expensive within a weekly budget, but these can be paid in instalments. If this is required, please make an appointment to see me and we can make a plan. Dejan’s writing describing the year 5 theme day is rich evidence of this Chinese proverb.

In my analysis of the behaviour within school, insolence has come out high. KS2 children are very clear on my thoughts about insolence and have been made very clear about the behaviours that are deemed insolent. In order to crack this, I have changed the sanction for insolence to an after school detention. Insolence makes unpleasant citizens and I don’t want this for Croyland children.

I am always happy to meet with you as parents. If you wish to speak to me first thing, I must ask you to wait until 9.00am as I like to welcome the children into school from the playground.

Thank you for your co-operation.

Snow Days?

Please make sure your mobile number is up to date as there is NO LONGER a Northamptonshire School Closure web page. We will text you if the school is closed for any reason, preferably the night before — I will always try to keep the school open.

Dejan's Adventure Day!

Supported by Jack, Mrs Isserlis' son.

Monday 21st January 2019
21.01.19

It wasn't a normal Wednesday of classroom learning. We were told the day before to bring warm clothes and wellies to change into. Eventually we were changed into our clothes and wellies. ✓

Afterwards, we were brought up to the fields and split into groups of 15 children my group were first to make orange cakes around a fire we had to scrape out the inside of the orange then we put raw cake mix in the empty orange & after that we needed to find a cooking partner to put the orange slices together to make a whole orange all of a sudden we wrapped the oranges in tin foil and Jack (Mrs Isserlis son) put the tin foil covered oranges in the fire after a while Jack told us how to use a sparkstick to light cotton wool on fire. ✓✓

Food Allergies

At Croyland Primary School we encourage everyone to eat together to create an inclusive environment.

We have a number of children and adults with food allergies, the kitchen staff are aware of it and provide meals to suit the children's needs. We also ask parents to encourage their children not to share food.

Thank you for supporting us.

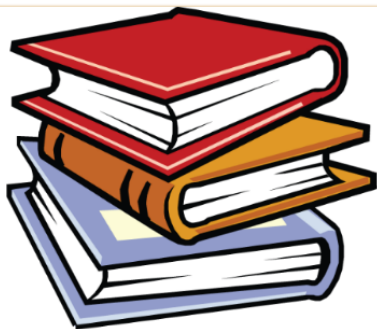

Book of the Month!

Have you read an amazing book this month?

We would love to hear all about it!

Please send your book review to the school office so we can share it in the next Newsletter.

Remember to also send in your 'Extreme Reading' photos. Where is the craziest (but safe) place you could read?

How to keep your child safe online

The internet is like a magician's hat. It's full of exciting things to discover and kids love it. But while they seem to know what they're doing, sometimes their parents don't – and that can be a worry.

That's why the NSPCC and O₂ have partnered to help parents keep their kids safe online. Here are some of the things you can do, and some of the ways we can help – every step of the way.

So what can you do?

1. Explore

Explore and understand the apps, games and sites your child uses and get to know your child's online world better.

3. Agree

Set out the family rules to live well online. Discuss and agree ground rules and make sure you're a good role model.

2. Talk

Chat to your child about their online world, just as you'd ask about their day at school.

4. Manage

Make the technology work for you. Adapt privacy settings and use parental controls where necessary.

Can you Solve this?

$$\text{Red Rose} + \text{Red Rose} + \text{Red Rose} = 60$$

$$\text{Red Rose} + \text{Blue Daisy} + \text{Blue Daisy} = 30$$

$$\text{Red Rose} + \text{Yellow Daisy} + \text{Blue Daisy} = ?$$
